For the first time, a story-telling museum will use evocative and extraordinary works of art to illustrate the depth of Jewish life, past and present. Utilizing cutting-edge technology, the visitor and user will have an unparalleled opportunity to begin a journey of discovery bringing to life the finest, saddest and even mundane moments of Jewish life and history. Extending over seven floors the museum's four main galleries will be complemented by classroom space, a library, and general public facilities including a restaurant and a museum shop.
